

CONSULTANT SUCCESS STORY:

Cory Favors Consultis Consultant, i3T

Quality Assurance Technician

With recent changes in the U.S. military, many active duty servicemen and women are seeking civilian work opportunities. Yet, translating military experience into civilian positions isn't always easy. Consultis is known for providing exceptional opportunities, professional respect and outstanding service to help our consultants reach their goals. Here is a first-hand example of how Consultis works hard to match the right job to the skills of our consultants.

"From the beginning, they made it clear that they wanted me for this role."

While I was ready to retire from military life, I was eager to keep my IT career going. However, I struggled to find a great fit in a civilian role and I wasn't willing to settle. I was hesitant to work with a staffing firm, as others I knew hadn't had positive experiences.

Two months before my military retirement date, I was contacted by a Consultis recruiter who had seen my resume on an online job board. After reviewing my skills, she already had a position in mind for me.

"Once we sat down and started discussing the role, everything clicked."

From the moment I walked into Consultis, I was impressed by both the people and the office space. I had been entertaining a few other offers, but once I met the Consultis team, I knew they were the firm that would help me find my perfect role. They took the time to really understand my needs, and it was clear they knew their clients and what they needed as well.

The process was effortless and quick. I was able to put in permanent leave prior to my official retirement date and begin working within two weeks of our initial conversation.

The Consultis team does everything right. From the first interaction to being hired, the Consultis team was professional, informative and personable.

"Consultis made my transition from military to civilian life seamless. I'm grateful to them for making my success and happiness a priority."

"It's all about the connection."

What stands out the most about Consultis is the relationships its team forms with consultants. We established a good working rapport right from our first meeting, and it continued from there. The team took the time to understand what was important to me, both in terms of my career and overall in my life. This connection has helped make the transition out of active military duty and into civilian life easy. They made all the necessary connections for me, set everything up and made the experience entirely seamless.

"They really wanted me to feel at home in my new position."

In my new role, I work with a military unit in a similar capacity as I was doing previously while on active duty. The team has been wonderful, the culture is perfect for my personality and working style, and the responsibilities of the job are a great fit for my experience. From the day I started, I knew that I had made the right decision.

Even though I'm settled in my role now, the Consultis recruiters continue to touch base—whether it's lunch, emails or a phone call—to ensure I am satisfied and engaged. They are more than recruiters, they work hard to build relationships and treat you like family. They have become part of my professional network. We continue to stay connected and partner on community organizations such as 10,000 Strong, an effort to help military veterans find employment.
